The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 38-62 and 65-74 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fiorelli (3,824,322) in view of Braverman for reasons of record.

Applicant argues that Fiorella is not directed to a straw but rather to a stirrer. This is disagreed with because a flavored tube is indicated a column 1, line 62 and the example at column 6 refer to a hollow polypropylene tube. Both of these citations suggest drinking straws. Applicant argues that Fiorella teaches away from flavored drinking straw at column 1, lines 56-69. This is disagreed with. The phrase "before the present invention" at column 1, lines 57-58 is a clear indication of that Fiorella is referring to the prior art. Applicants reference to crimping and perforations has been considered but is not persuasive. No difference is seen between the coated article in Fiorelli and the coated article of the claims. The claims are not restricted to one type of surface or the other.

Applicant has amended the claims to set forth an acid level of 40-100%. Applicant argues that Fiorelli does not use such a high acid concentration in his product. This has been considered but is not persuasive. The straw of Fiorelli contains a high percentage of corn syrup solids. If one of ordinary skill in the art wanted to prepare a low calorie beverage, it would be obvious to omit the corn syrup from the ingredient mix. This would act to increase the percentage of food grade acid in the composition. Applicant argues that Fiorelli applies his flavoring in a moist environment. But then the moisture is removed from the flavoring composition so that the percent of food grade acid would be expected to go up. The fact that the amount of acid coated on the straw of Fiorelli is not mentioned is not alone seen to constitute unobviousness.

The rejection of the claims over Jabara has been withdrawn for the reasons argued by applicant.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
